

Prof. Dr. Harald Kächele

Position: Scientist

Working Group "Land Use in Developing Countries"
Professor for Environmental Economics (Eberswalde University for Sustainable Development)

Academic education and scientific degrees

2000	Professor for Environmental Economics (Eberswalde University for Sustainable Development)
1993 – 1999	Ph.D. Agricultural Economics (Faculty of Agricultural Science, Institute of Farm Management at the University of Hohenheim)
1982 – 1989	Dipl. Ing agr. from University of Hohenheim

Professional experience

2000 – 2017	Deputy Head of ZALF-Institute of Socio-Economics at Leibniz-Centre for Agricultural Landscape Research (ZALF)
2014	Acting Administrative Director at Leibniz-Centre for Agricultural Landscape Research (ZALF)
Since 1992	Scientist at Leibniz-Centre for Agricultural Landscape Research (ZALF)

Research Profile

Background

- Agricultural Economics
- Environmental Economics

Research Activities

- Adaptation of traditional farming communities on climate change in developing countries
- Impact of natural conservation measures on livelihood of traditional farming communities in developing countries

Functions and memberships

Since 2017	Member of Expert Advisory Board for Nature Conservation of the State Berlin
Since 2006	Chairman of Board of Trustees "Oro Verde, Tropical Forest Foundation"
Since 2002	Vice Head of Advisory Board for Nature Conservation of the State Brandenburg
Since 2001	President of "Environmental Action Germany" (DUH)

ORCID iD: 0000-0002-4146-2821